| Admin/Biographical History: | John Ribton Garstin (1836-1917) was an archaeologist and antiquarian expert with a particular interest in heraldry, pedigrees and genealogy. He was a member of the Royal Irish Academy, the Royal Dublin Society, the Royal Society of Antiquaries of Ireland, and vice-president of the County Louth Archaeological Society. Garstin's ancestor, Captain Symon Garstin (d1660) – who assisted Sir William Petty on the Down Survey – and his uncle Major James Garstin received a grant of the lands at Braganstown and at Leragh Castle in Co Westmeath. John Ribton Garstin was the only son of William Garstin of the Leragh Castle branch. Born in Dublin, he moved to County Louth in 1877. He served as High Sheriff from 1880 – 1881 and then served on the Grand Jury from 1881 – 1889. When the Grand Jury ceased to function, he was one of three members from that body elected to Louth County Council. Garstin married Mary Martha Toone Durham in 1864 and his only son Major William Fortescue Colborne Garstin, 5th Royal Irish Fusiliers was killed in the Dardanelles in 1915. His three daughters – Helen Cordelia, Adeline Frances, and Rosamund Alethea – became co-heiresses of Braganstown. Garstin was responsible for writing the abstract in the Dunleer minute book circa 1899-1900. It would appear that he transcribed this collection of notes on Dunleer Corporation about that time. The National Library of Ireland contains a collection relating to the Garstin family. |
