Repository Code:	IE LHA
Collection Ref Code:	PP00069/
Title:	Roden Collection
Dates:	1611 – 1986
Level of Description:	Fonds
Extent:	10 archival boxes, 2 outsize boxes, and 1 outsize map folder
Name of Creator(s):	Earls of Roden and their agents
Admin/Biographical Hist:	The town and lands of Dundalk, around 2,500 acres, were granted to Marcus Trevor, Viscount Dungannon, by Charles II in 1667. The third viscount, Mark Trevor, apparently was heavily indebted, and in 1692 the Dundalk estate was sold to James Hamilton of Tollymore, County Down. The son of this James Hamilton, also James, was created Viscount Limerick in 1719, and earl of Clanbrassil in 1756, before his death in 1758, upon which the estates passed to his son, and second earl of Clanbrassil, James, who died without issue in 1798. The estates then passed to the first earl of Clanbrassil's daughter, Lady Anne Hamilton. The Jocelyns, earls of Roden, were originally based in County Tipperary. Robert Jocelyn was created first earl of Roden, of High Roding, County Tipperary, in 1771. In 1752 he married Lady Anne Hamilton, and on the death of the second earl of Clanbrassil, the earls of Roden succeeded to the Dundalk estate through this marriage. Although the first earl of Roden lived mainly in Tipperary and Dundalk, his grandson the third earl, Robert Jocelyn (1788 – 1870) was based at Tollymore. The Roden line continued through the sons of the third earl until the fifth earl, a younger son, died without issue in 1897. After this, the Roden title and estates reverted to the line of a younger son of the second earl of Roden, who had died in 1820. This line has continued down to the present tenth earl of Roden, Robert John Jocelyn, who currently resides in Doon House, Cashel, County Galway, the family estates in County Down having been sold in the 1940s. Several portions of the Roden Dundalk estate were sold off under auspices of the various land acts of the nineteenth century and early twentieth centuries, culminating in the Irish Free State government lands purchase acts of the 1920s. The residue of the estate, mainly freeholds and ground rents, were sold in 2006, thus finally severing the links between the earls of Roden and the town of Dundalk.
Archival History:	The documents in this collection were created through the running of the Roden estate, which included the entire town of Dundalk and much lands around its environs. Most of the papers now held by the Louth County Archives Service were initially collected by members of the County Louth Archaeological and Historical Society, and deposited in the Archives Service in 2001 – 2010. Over 400 Roden leases were saved by Redmond Magrath, a member of the Society, after they were discarded from the Roden estate office during its move from Dundalk around 1920-1921. Of these, 290 have been so far abstracted and published in the County Louth Archaeological and Historical Journal.

The majority of the Roden papers concerning Dundalk were sold at auction in July 2006. The buyer has remained anonymous, and these papers are currently (July 2007) held at the offices of Woods Ahern Mullen Solicitors, Dundalk, and are listed at PP00069/001/002/001-533.

The Una Wilkie papers were donated to the Louth County Archives Service by Una Wilkie in 2006.

The original accession numbers for the components of the collection are P/00022; P/00046; P/00055; P/00069; P/00102; P/00222; P/00226; P/00275; P/00297; and P/00299. See also related collection PP00139/ Dundalk Grammar School and PP00058/ Rampart River Dundalk.

Scope and Content:

The Roden collection is concerned with the Dundalk estates of the earls of Roden, and consists essentially of three types of document: indentured leases from the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, estate correspondence and papers from the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, and correspondence between the ground rent collector, Una Wilkie, and the tenth earl of Roden from the 1970s. It should be noted that the old street names in many of the leases do not correspond with today's street names, eg the old Barrack Street includes Crowe Street, Jocelyn Place, Jocelyn Street, and today's Barrack Street. Many of the leases are large parchment documents, and the estate papers include nineteenth century correspondence, estate accounts, rental books, and several detailed maps of properties in Dundalk, many of which are in an entire auction book (PP00069/002/001/13) of the estate. Sub-fonds PP00069/003/ are mainly typewritten letters from the 1970s. Due to the presence of financial details of individuals, this sub-fonds is closed for public access and will be reviewed in 2023.

Accruals:

Leases calendared in the County Louth Historical and Archaeological Society Journal in 2008 and 2009, and described in this descriptive list, were deposited in Louth County Archives Service in 2009 and 2010, and the descriptive list was revised in May 2010. The remaining Roden leases, currently held in the offices of Woods Ahern Mullen Solicitors and described in the series PP00069/001/002/, are not expected to come into the possession of Louth County Archives Service in the near future.

System of Arrangement:

The collection is arranged in three main divisions, as described in the scope and content section. The Roden leases form one main sub-fonds (PP00069/001/). The estate papers are a more eclectic collection of documents that were acquired by the Louth County Archives Service at different stages; they have been arranged in chronological order, with two series on specific topics. The Wilkie letters were acquired as and have been preserved as an organic sub-fonds of correspondence.

Deed of conveyance and release between William Nassau Jocelyn and the earl of Arran (trustees of the Roden estate); the earl of Roden; the earl of Arran; Reverend Joseph King and James Hawes; and the Great Northern Railway Company of Ireland. Recites indenture of 7 March 1837 and some thereafter illustrating the encumbrances on the Roden estate, and the appointment of W. N. Jocelyn and Arran as trustees of estate. Sales of part of the Roden estate by the Irish Estates Court have reduced the debts on the estate to £7500 plus interest, part of which is owed to King and Hawes mentioned above.

In 1886 the Great Northern Railway (Ireland) purchased the Newry, Warrenpoint and Rostrevor Railway. In order that they might improve their works, several parcels of land held by the Newry Warrenpoint and Rostrevor Railway on the Roden estate are to be sold outright to the Great Northern Railway (Ireland) for £1925. Lands referred to are: parts of Cambricville containing 1 acre 3 roods 38 perches, 2 roods and 2 perches, and 1 acre and 2 perches, 2 acres 1 rood 15 perches: part of the Townparks containing 1 rood; part of the Demesne containing 3 acres 1 rood 23 perches. Declaration of trust of James Boyd and Fetherston H. Briscoe, administrator of the estate of the late Reverend Walter Hore, to the earl of Roden and Lord Jocelyn. Recites mortgage of 12 July 1843 and marriage settlement of 26 April 1841 for the marriage of Lord Jocelyn and Lady Frances Elizabeth Cowper, which allowed the said Roden and Jocelyn to mortgage certain named lands for a sum not exceeding £20,000. Recites 1840 Dundalk Harbour Improvements Act, under which the Dundalk Harbour Commissioners applied to Roden and Jocelyn for £4,000 to enable improvements to be made. This money was provided by William Thomas Barlow as a mortgage for certain lands and then passed on to James Boyd and Walter Hore, who lent it to the Commissioners in return for a portion of the rates and duties payable to the Dundalk Harbour Commissioners, with machinery such as the dredge barge as collateral. James Boyd and Fetherston Briscoe now declare their interest in the said £4,000 and are to recover it when it shall be raised.
